. The Pittsburg Disputch says that more than 10 per cent of the public-school children of that city are hear-sighted.

The freshman class of Harvard University this year is the largest in the history of the institution, being upward of 290. President Parker, of Racine College, Wisconsin, is to be replaced in a few days by the Rev. A. Zabriskie Gray, who was recently elected to the presidency by the Board of Trustees.

At a meeting of the Board of Education of St. Paul, Minn., recently, a resolution was adopted, introducing temperance text-books in some of the public schools of that city.

A letter recently appeared in The Troy Times arguing for the abolition of recesses and the consequent shortening of the school hours. The writer says that nearly all the damage done to school property is traceable to the recess.

Vassar College is said to be in a very flourishing state this year. Over 100 new students have already been received. These together with the old students returning swell the total number in attendance to a figure not reached in any previous year since 1877. Additions are yet being made daily, and the indications are that the accommodations of the College may be severely taxed before the close of the academic year.

The seventh session of Johns Hopkins University was opened with seventy new students. President Gilman in his opening remarks, referring to the great prosperity of the institution, said that there are now 186 students in the University, and that of the 449 who have been graduated from it, 110 are instructors and professors in other colleges and universities. Dr. William B. Carpenter, the eminent physiologist of England, was present and make to the students.

The remissness of the London schools in teaching history is very severely commented on by the mem-bers of the Council on Education. One of them says: "The fact that few children leave school with any knowledge of the history of their own with any knowledge of the history of tach own country has been justly regarded as a reproach to elementary education. Teachers are too often content with letting the children write out some bald narrative. . . Alfred and William Rutus occupy a very disproportionate space. The story of the former sovereign especially is as much overdone as his cakes; the question of how past events have produced present conditions seems rarely to enter the head of teacher or scholar."

The old question of getting school books at cost is coming up again in various parts of the country. The jobbery involved in the frequent changes of text-books of schools is acknowledged by all fairminded people; but it is not so easy to discover a way to stop it. The San Francisco Bulletin is in favor of putting the publication and sale of all school books in the hands of the State, which would allow publishers in general to get up editions of their own, but uniform as to size and type. "The State," it says, "might have a depository of text-books in every county. When these books are furnished at cost, or, say for 10 per cent above cost, there will be no more school-book wars, and will be fewer reports of scandalous proceedings in the piain and matter-of-lact business of supplying text-books as a part of the machinery of public education." way to stop it. The San Francisco Bulletin is in

The Baltimore American doesn't like politics to be intruded into the public schools, which it says has been done in Baltimore. "The appointment of teachers to the public schools is a part of the 'patronage' of the members of the City Council Each member of the Council 'names ins school commissioner, and 'ctiquette' requires the other members to vote for him. This makes the school commission a matter of 'patronage' and of 'incommission a matter of 'patronage' and of 'influence,' that are employed for political, and not for purely educational purposes. Even the colored schools are patronage, and though the colored pupils and their parents desire teachers of their own race, and though competent colored teachers have passed the examinations, yet influence gives the colored schools to white teachers; and any interference with the patronage of appointing white teachers is resented as an invasion of the perquisites of the Council and the school commission." This is a serious indictment of the public schools of Baltimore, and calls for a speedy answer.

The list recently published of candidates who obtained honors at the last examination of the University of London, makes it possible to estimate the progress made by women since the means of higher education in the arts and sciences, as well as languages, were thrown open to them. From this list it appears that no woman took honors in anatomy, materia medica, chemistry or physiology. Two women took honors in the English language. In Latin, one woman's name heads the second class, and two others are in the third. In French and German the women more than held their cwn, one being first in the first division, and five others appearing in the third class. A woman also heads the list in German; and women took also heads the list in German; and women took honors in inorganic chemistry, experimental physics and botany. The general conclusion (uggested by the list is, that in science, female stadents can hardly be said to be preeminently successful; while in modern languages other than English they have secured far more than the average proportion of honors due to their numbers.

All the ore that has been run through the mill came from the Caledonia ledge, and, owing to the difficulty in getting out ore, have not been abstorum more than 40 stamps. As soon as we get our sill-floor sets in we will be able to supply the whole mill with ore at about the same expense it takes to run 40 stamps now. The mine is looking well, and machinery is running nicely at both mil and mine. Seven hundred and fifty tons delivered to the mill.
